

Interdisciplinary Training, Education & Research in Food-Energy-Water Systems

COLORADO STATE UNIVERSITY

Acknowledgement of Support

If papers that you publish or presentations that you give at conferences feature Food-Energy-Water research that you conducted, in part or in full, while supported by the InTERFEWS NSF Research Traineeship program, it is important to give proper credit to the National Science Foundation. Support could be in the form of an NSF stipend and/or mentorship through InTERFEWS. Even if the NSF award did not provide direct financial support for execution of your research, participation in the program provided support while completing your work and therefore should be acknowledged.

Faculty: The above statements are also relevant to you. Even if the FEW research that you conducted was not directly supported by the NSF award (e.g. trainee), we hope that participation in the InTERFEWS program is providing support and you can therefore provide acknowledgement. The program is intended to increase capacity building of interdisciplinary FEW nexus research across CSU and noting faculty products is one way we show this.

The following wording should be used when acknowledging support from the InTERFEWS NRT: This material is based upon work supported by the National Science Foundation under Grant No. 1828902.

NSF provides very specific guidelines for the appropriate language to use in the acknowledgments section of a paper. This information can be found at https://www.nsf.gov/pubs/gpg/nsf04_23/6.jsp and is copied here for your convenience:

An acknowledgment of NSF support and a disclaimer must appear in publications (including World Wide Web sites) of any material, whether copyrighted or not, based on or developed under NSF-supported projects:

"This material is based upon work supported by the National Science Foundation under Grant No. (grantee must enter NSF grant number)."

NSF support also must be orally acknowledged during all news media interviews, including popular media such as radio, television and news magazines.

Except for articles or papers published in scientific, technical or professional journals, the following disclaimer must be included:

"Any opinions, findings, and conclusions or recommendations expressed in this material are those of the author(s) and do not necessarily reflect the views of the National Science Foundation."

The grant number for our InTERFEWS NRT is: 1828902

Additionally, when you are giving a poster or presentation at a conference, you should acknowledge the support of the National Science Foundation and InTERFEWS.

On the NSF website, there are several different versions of the NSF logo and their guidelines for use (<https://www.nsf.gov/policies/logos.jsp>).
